

IMAGING SERVICES

MRI

Magnetic Resonance Imaging captures detailed, 3D views of the body's internal structures.

OPEN-MRI

Specialized MRI for those who are claustrophobic or bariatric, ensuring quality and comfort.

3.0T MRI

Generates a magnetic field that is twice as strong as a normal MRI.

CT

Computed Tomography utilizes x-ray and computer technology to create detailed pictures of bones and soft tissues.

PET/CT

PET (Positron Emission Tomography)/CT scans detect cellular changes in organs and tissues.

ULTRASOUND

High-frequency sound waves produce real-time images of the body's internal structures.

MAMMOGRAPHY

X-ray imaging that examines the breast for the early detection of cancer and other breast diseases.

X-RAY

This technique uses electromagnetic radiation to visualize the body's internal structures.

FLUOROSCOPY

Uses x-rays to obtain real-time moving images of the interior of an object.

INTERVENTIONAL RADIOLOGY

Uses image guidance as a minimally-invasive way to diagnose and treat disease.

NEURO-INTERVENTIONAL RADIOLOGY

Minimally invasive, image guided techniques to diagnose and treat vascular and non-vascular disorders of the brain, spine, head and neck.

NUCLEAR MEDICINE

Radioactive substances are used to visualize, diagnose, and treat various conditions.

GENETIC TESTING

Looks for genetic changes in DNA, sometimes called mutations or variants.

BONE DENSITY SCAN (DEXA)

A low-dose x-ray that measures calcium and other minerals in your bones.
